GOVQA SECURES FIFTH ANNUAL GOVTECH 100 LISTING

GovQA has been recognized as a Top 100 company in GovTech since the list's inception five years ago.

Woodridge, IL | January 07, 2020 – GovQA, the leading provider of compliance automation solutions for government, is proud to announce its recognition in _Government Technology's GovTech 100_ for the fifth consecutive year since the list's inception.

"Our accelerating 40% year-over-year growth rate supported by our new partnership with Frontier Growth helped us secure our continued GovTech 100 listing," said Will Repole, Co-Founder and Chief Operating Officer of GovQA.

The annual list, published by _Government Technology_ Magazine, recognizes the top 100 companies focused on making a difference in state and local government agencies across the country.

"We are honored to once again be named a GovTech 100 company," said Phillip Hodge, GovQA Chief Strategic Development Officer. "We appreciate that _Government Technology_ continues to highlight the work our state and local government partners and our employees are doing to deliver the most innovative digital government solutions in the industry."

GovQA is proud to partner with hundreds of government organizations, including 30% of the top 300 U.S. cities and counties and agencies in nearly all 50 states; and has developed a suite of government compliance solutions for public records, subpoenas, legal holds, discovery, complaints, claims, correspondence, and citizen engagement.

"For the past 20 years, GovQA has been committed to developing trusted SaaS tools and security to streamline government collaboration for compliance with federal, state and local laws," said Jen Snyder, Chief Sales Officer for GovQA. "We look forward to continuing to leverage technology that enhances the relationship between citizens and governments."
