Vancouver-based Tochtech Technologies SMART home solution gains corporate and media attention

Vancouver-based Tochtech Technologies develops technology that adds intelligence to the kitchen.

Vancouver, 11 July, 2016: Tochtech Inc. a Vancouver-based technology company whose mission is to provide SMART home solutions for safer living, launched its first product, Toch Smarturns on Kickstarter on July 28th. The Smarturns Kickstarter campaign has been an important opportunity to raise market awareness of the product, and obtain product feedback. “We have been contacted directly by CTV News (Vancouver) and NewsWatch TV, in addition to corporations which see a need for our technology. It is hugely encouraging”, said Tochtech CEO, Jessica Yang. Other Smart Home providers have also expressed interest in developing a partnership with Tochtech to develop and market an integrated Smart Home solution. The global Smart Home market is expected to grow from USD 46.97 Billion in 2015 to USD 121.73 Billion by 2022. News of Toch Smarturns Kickstarter campaign was picked up by over 160 media outlets in North America during the first 2 days of the campaign, which ends on August 1, 2016.

Utilizing the Internet of Things, motion sensor, wireless and patent-pending technologies, the Toch Smarturns solution transforms existing stoves to SMART stoves, adding intelligence to your kitchen inexpensively. This first in-class, solution triggers a local alarm and mobile phone notifications to users and family members if a stove is unattended and may lead to danger. CEO and Co-founder, Jessica Yang said “Our intention was to create a product that could be used with existing stoves, so that the investment to create a SMART stove is affordable for everyone. It’s not just seniors, but the multi-tasking mum or the distracted teenager or student who will benefit from our technology”.
