Like or Dislike

Swipe right to like or dislike a beat.

Liking = increasing that person's karma score (yay!)

Disliking = decreasing it
(so be mindful of what you send to others ya'll.)

7. Maadly

Maadly is essentially a gamified social media platform that lets users share short snippets of their content with people around the world, at random. Unlike most social media platforms, your self-expression and interaction with others is not dependent on your current network. Messages on Maadly are called “beats” and come in the form of text, photo, or video. They are broadcasted randomly within the app based on the user’s “karma score”.

Grow your karma score every time users like or engage with your beat. The higher your karma score, the more people your beats will reach. This freedom to openly share a bit of your world at any given time, without being restricted to existing networks, generates a very real, raw, and genuine environment. You never know which city incoming beats will come from, and you never know where your broadcasted beats will land, making for a truly unique social experience.
