LOCAL CUSTOM HOME BUILDER CHANGES TO A NEW NAME KEEPING THE HIGH STANDARDS

After 25 years in business JDL Construction has matured into James David Custom Homes

IRVINE, Calif. (October 20, 2016) — James David Custom Homes sets a high standard for custom homebuilding excellence and customer experience that empowers Orange County homeowners to do it right the first time.

In the face of fierce competition amongst the almost 3,000 home builders around Newport Beach, James David Custom Homes has developed an impeccable reputation and has been trusted to build more than 550 homes for this elite Southern California market.

The team at James David Custom Homes goes far beyond construction. They supervise subcontractors and artisans in addition to keeping tabs on local zoning regulations, building codes, environmental consciousness, sustainability, energy efficiency and more. Plus, their pedigree has established access to talented interior designers, architects, landscapers and other specialty contractors.

“Excellence has been our tradition for 25 years and this evolution aligns with our true overall purpose to build homes that deliver a better living experience,” said James David Custom Homes Owner James Lepak. “Our name didn’t reflect our full story. So as we evolve, so does our name. Spelling out the name puts my personal stamp of quality on each project.”

Orange County’s housing market is on a slow but steady path to full recovery and that includes a resurgence of construction needs, according to The California Real Estate News. James David Custom Homes looks forward to meeting the needs of this growing market.
