Benefits

CorityOne provides a 360-degree picture of risk, empowering EHS professionals to understand the hazards employees face, and how physical assets can impact people and workplaces. In doing so, CorityOne provides the right worker with the right information at the right time to make quick and effective decisions. The platform empowers a future where the inputs to assess these risks will increasingly come not only from workers, but also sensors, wearables, and other forms of IoT and connected devices.
