

Filming has begun on “Godless Country”, a new film directed by Hajime Hashimoto!

The new movie "Godless Country" directed by Hajime Hashimoto, the director of "AIBOU: Tokyo Detective Duo" and "PI is in the Bar" series, has started filming in Tokyo.

This story takes place in Japan, a "godless country" where those who make an effort are not rewarded but suffer even more...

Single mother Ryoko (Nana Yanagisawa) and her 14-year-old daughter Namie (Kayo Uemura) are struggling to make ends meet, but they are still trying to make the most of every day.

However, Ryoko is not getting paid enough for her work, her daughter is being bullied at school, and they have reached the end of their patience.

Finally, Ryoko plans to move out, but she can't even afford it.

With the help of Takako Takano (Yoko Otaka), who runs "Koala House," a shelter for single mothers, the two are finally able to fall into a deep sleep in a safe place.

Despite this, a new fate begins to toss them around.

Ryoko is so desperate to work that she has long forgotten that she is a woman, but love comes her way, and someone with radical ideas appears in front of Namie.

Unbeknownst to her mother, Namie has been brainwashed. At a class presentation, Namie confesses that she wants to be a revolutionary who will turn this "godless country" upside down, and surprisingly, she is enthusiastically supported by many of her classmates.
