

HOSTED BY AUTHOR
STEPHEN
DORSEY

LISTEN ON YOUR FAVORITE PODCAST
APP!

“Black and White is a rallying place where we come together to learn and hold everyone gently to account. A podcast for the ally in all of us.” – Stephen Dorsey

Black and White is a limited series by Evergreen Podcasts, hosted by the author of Black and White, Stephen Dorsey. Exploring the reckoning of our times around systemic racism and inequality, each episode finds Stephen in conversation with insightful and inspiring guest from the world of business, politics, social justice, entertainment, journalism and academia. Stephen delves deeper into the realities of “White Advantage”, Canada’s Mythology on Race, Discrimination of Indigenous people, Justice System Reform and more — all with hopeful optimism and a unique multicultural perspective on the paths to change.

About the Host

Stephen Dorsey is the Canadian-born author of “Black and White” to be released in North America February 2022 by Nimbus Publishing. He is the principal of The Fractional CMO, a strategic management consultancy and of Dorsey Studios, a content production development company. Stephen is also a founding member of Democracy House—a grassroots organization and movement dedicated to preserving and strengthening liberal democratic ideals. For more than 30-years, Stephen’s personal and professional passions have taken him around the world where he has engaged with Fortune 1000 organizations and met amazing people of all backgrounds. Today, he and his two young children call Toronto home.

Host:

Stephen Dorsey | stephen@dorseystudios.ca

Producer:

Noah Foutz | nfoutz@evergreenpodcasts.com

Executive Producer:

David Allen Moss | dross@evergreenpodcasts.com