

WHERE EVERY VISIT IS AN ADVENTURE!

Museum Access Show Description

Museum Access is a ½ hour television series that showcases America's top museums in a new and exciting way.

Each episode of Museum Access focuses on a single museum. Host Leslie Mueller brings her dynamic and down-to-earth interview style and natural sense of curiosity to every episode. She talks with the directors and curators to get the insider's viewpoint. The show opens with the museum expert's overview of what to expect to see at a particular museum. This conversation sets up the adventure the viewer is about to embark on.

We then continue on to a specific museum exhibit where we take a behind-the-scenes look to learn even more.

We see exhibitions being set up or refreshed, artists and artisans at work in their studios, rare artifacts, bustling science labs and medical spaces in museums. Areas and artifacts that are normally off limits to the everyday visitor.

Museum Access is inspiring, entertaining and just plain fun to watch while showcasing America's diverse cultural heritage and human achievement.

Thanks to the generosity of the U.S. Dept. of Education, Museum Access will be both Close Captioned and Audio Described making it fully accessible to all viewers.
