Ms. Miller, I wanted to take a minute to express how your words of Wisdom and the sharing of the Word of God has so blessed me during a time in my life when not only did I go through the worse breakup in my life but also during a time while mending my broken heart having to be strong for my sister who went through brain surgery without giving her a clue of the pain that had increased in my spirit. I thank God for your Ministry, your Wisdom in the area of Relationships and the discernment and anointing that is upon you to help couples/people with their relationships. I so look forward to your new book and plan to pre-order my copy. By the way not only did God healed my sister, but also I will never forget the last thing you said to me during that conversation which was " If you continue to give attention to the wrong one, you will not see the right one he's blessed you with" and boom there she was. I would encourage any couple to utilize your consulting services its truly been a blessing.

With much Love!!!!!!
