

Futurism EndPoint Secure powered by IBM MaaS360

Gain better visibility and control over all your endpoints including mobile devices, applications, IoT devices, and enterprise data.

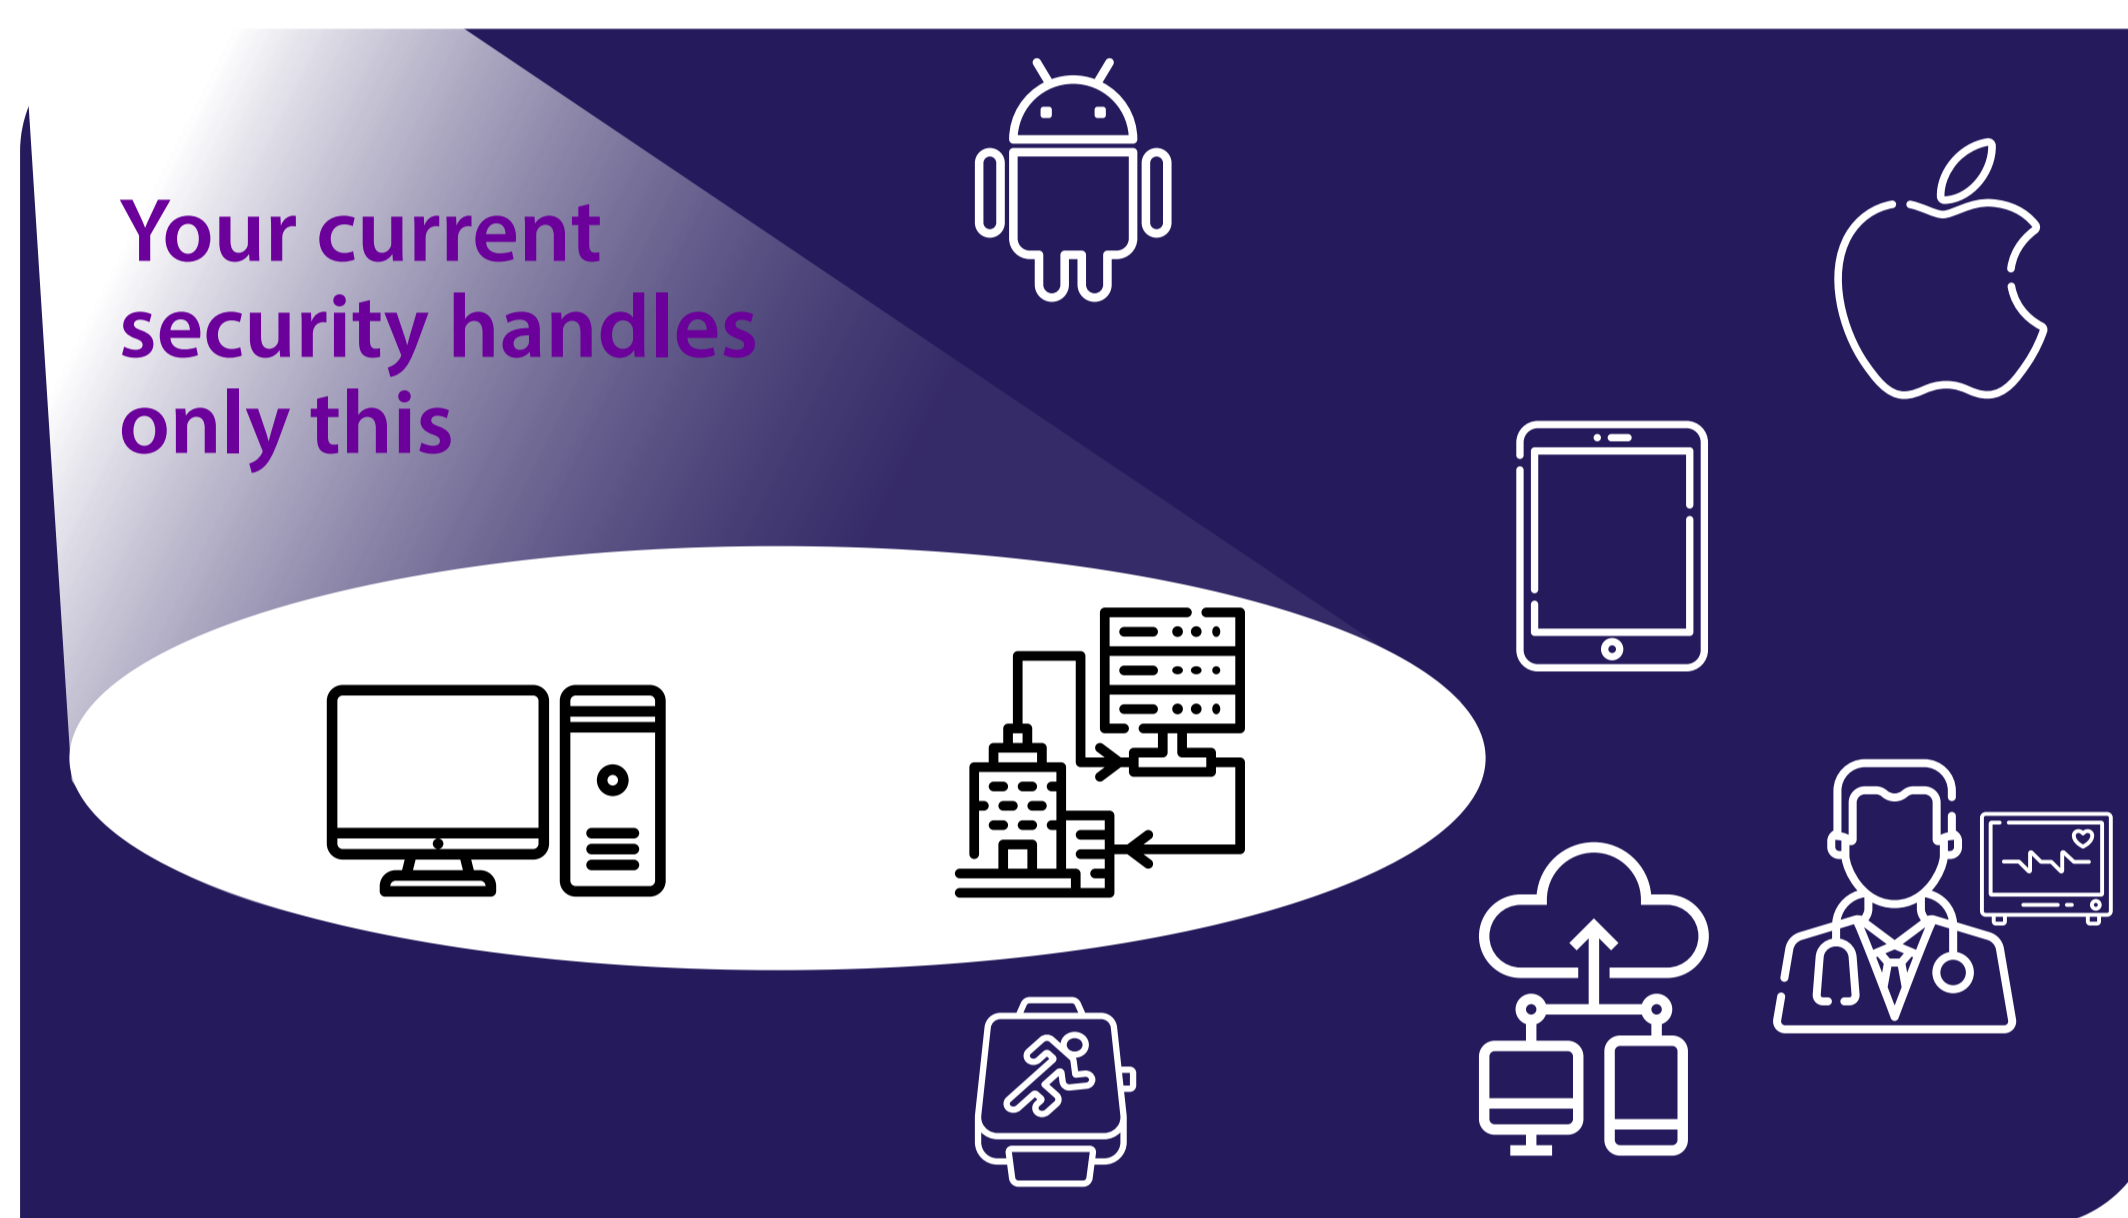

With the unprecedented explosion of mobile devices in workplaces, organizations across the world are on the lookout for novel and advance ways to secure sensitive business information.

Did you know? In a recent survey, 2/3rd of the organizations surveyed reported incidents of data breaches on mobile devices that provide access to sensitive company data.

In another survey, it was found that only half of these businesses had a robust mobile device management and security policy in place.

Security Challenges:

Confronted with the challenges of dealing with an ever-increasing mobile workplace, businesses find it difficult to strike the right balance between empowering a mobile workforce and help them become more productive whilst safeguarding sensitive business information from potential threats. In addition, many companies don't have the staff and skills to manage policy and security on endpoints.

This is where Futurism EndPoint Secure comes in!

EndPoint Secure is a unified endpoint management solution delivered as a managed security service. EndPoint Secure manages endpoint policies and security threats for all your company endpoints including desktops, mobile phones, tablets, wearables and IoT devices.

Futurism EndPoint Secure is a unified endpoint management service that gives you better visibility and control of your devices and data. EndPoint Secure curbs the costs and complexities that accompany standalone mobile security solutions and require additional management infrastructure.

Unlike other manage security service offerings, EndPoint Secure, based on IBM Watson technology, integrates multiple layers of data protection to safeguard your business information irrespective of wherever it sits or goes. Encryption enforcement, password enforcement, remote access and lock, and other tools work in tandem to secure your data round the clock.
