

PracticeWise Announces Key Team Addition and Executive Promotions

Building the team to fuel and support continued company growth.

PracticeWise, a behavioral health company that helps those who are in the business of helping others lead better lives, today announced the addition of Brian Mossing as Director of Information Technology and the promotion of company executives David Daleiden and Teri Bourdeau.

Brian comes to PracticeWise with a deep well of knowledge and experience from a variety of roles and organizations. Brian is a veteran and a retiree of the U.S. Air Force after serving honorably for 20 years. Since leaving the Air Force, Brian spent 14 years working in several IT related roles at Northrop Grumman Corporation and most recently he served as the IT Operations Manager for Tsymmetry Inc. Brian has a BS in Computer Information Systems from Rollins College, an MBA with an emphasis in Computer Resources and information Management from Webster University as well as holding Project Management and Information Technology Infrastructure Library (ITIL) Certifications. Brian will be responsible for managing the PracticeWise Information Technology infrastructure and platforms and helping to drive the company's information technology innovation and growth strategies.

Teri Bourdeau has been promoted to the role of Vice President of Training and Development. Teri has been working with PracticeWise since 2010 and in a full-time capacity as Director of Training since 2015. Her promotion recognizes her leadership and ongoing and sustained success in creating enduring customer partnerships and delivering world-class training that makes a difference for our partners and individual mental health providers. She will continue to lead the PracticeWise training and consultation efforts and will assume additional responsibilities for product development and innovation as well as play a key role in ongoing business development activities.

David Daleiden has been promoted to the role of Vice President of Finance and Operations. David has been a key contributor and fixture at PracticeWise since the inception of the company. David has provided a consistent and stable presence and has handled virtually all the company financial and operational duties over time. Because of our continued growth, David will be evolving his leadership role to focus on more strategic projects and ways to further optimize our operations to best serve the current and future needs of our customers.

Bryan J. Stewart, PracticeWise Chief Executive Officer stated, "I am thrilled to welcome Brian to our team and to celebrate the promotions of both David and Teri. It is a great time here at PracticeWise as our team and business continue to grow. We are very fortunate to have a great team focused on our mission and customers. In addition, we have built a strong leadership team including both Teri and David. Both of their promotions position us very well organizationally for continued growth and reflect their outstanding efforts, dedication and sustained excellent performance. Congratulations to them both on these well-deserved promotions and a warm welcome to Brian to the PracticeWise family."

#####

For more information:

Bryan J. Stewart, Chief Executive Officer

321-312-4240

b.stewart@practicewise.com

About PracticeWise

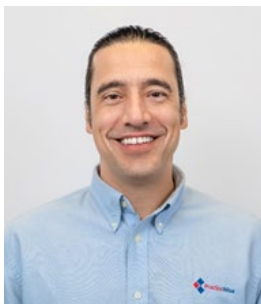

Founded in 2004, PracticeWise helps those who are in the business of helping others lead better lives. We prioritize and deliver the best available evidence to enable behavioral health providers and the systems they work in to be as efficient and effective as possible by helping them to know what to use when based on knowledge and context. PracticeWise provides training, tools, and resources that help individuals working with children and families to help kids get better faster. Find more information about how PracticeWise is serving and shaping the future of behavioral health at www.practicewise.com.

Brian Mossing
Director of Information Technology

Teri Bourdeau, Ph.D., ABPP
Vice President of Training and Development

David Daleiden
Vice President of Finance and Operations

For more information:

Bryan J. Stewart, Chief Executive Officer
321-312-4240
b.stewart@practicewise.com