COINBASE POTENTIAL LISTING OF ATLAS TOKEN

Coinbase, the second-largest crypto exchange by trading volume, will be putting Solana Program Library (SPL) tokens on its trading floors. SPL tokens are cryptocurrency tokens native to the Solana network, which adhere to a strict token standard, similar to Ethereum's ERC-20.

The adoption of SPL tokens will bring these Solana-based crypto's to a vast group of investors with a Coinbase listing. There, investors in these projects are looking forward to some gains once they do end up on the exchange. StarAtlas' token, $ATLAS, is amongst the 3 tokens mentioned by Nasdaq as the potential projects worth getting listed by Coinbase. The report led to a minor jump in the token price the following day. FF

WOMEN'S WEEK GIVEAWAY AND CLOSING CEREMONY

The Ladies Night Giveaway Twitter space session was held on the last day of Women's Week in conjunction with the release of the first ever women's empowerment outlet in the Metaverse (MetaPower) by Final Frontier. The giveaway, which was announced from a week prior to the event was allocated to the ladies present in the session only. The equivalent of $4,500 USD worth of Star Atlas ships (NFTs) and 20,000 $FRNT were given away to 7 lucky winners. The project is in line with the #Createchange movement, an initiative of Final Frontier DAO, aiming to touch the lives of the DAO community members in forms of financial aids, raising awareness for equality and fair treatment, and creating occupational and advertising opportunities. FF

ONLYFANS OFFERS NFT PROFILE PICTURE

Amrapali “Ami” Gan, OnlyFans’ CEO, commented in a statement to Reuters that the online subscription platform known for adult content will enable creators to make nonfungible token, or NFT, profile pictures.

“Our mission is to empower creators to own their full potential. This feature is the first step in exploring the role that NFTs can play on our platform.”

OnlyFans will only support NFTs minted on the Ethereum (ETH) blockchain and that an Ethereum icon next to the NFT profile picture would signal authenticity, as claimed by Reuters.

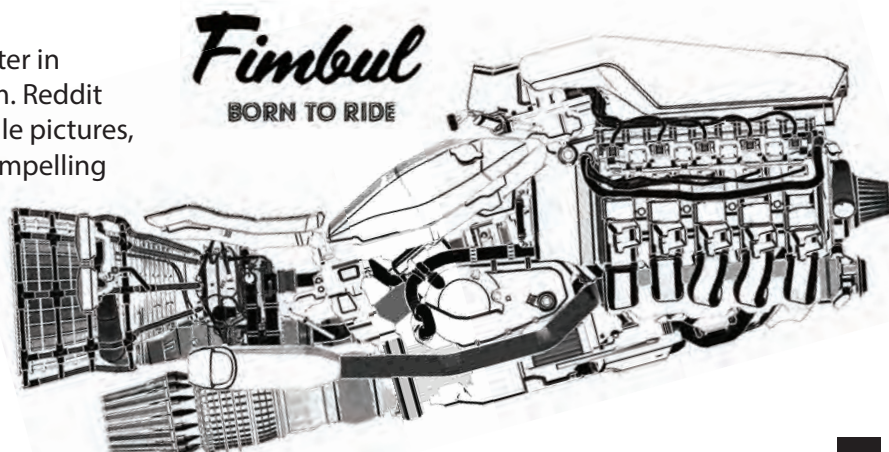

According to the company, OnlyFans introduced the feature in December when Gan, the newly-appointed CEO, took over. Upon assuming the role, Gan said in a statement that the platform shows its commitment to safety “by blending state of the art technology with creative capital.”

United Kingdom-based OnlyFans follows Twitter in introducing NFT profile pictures to its platform. Reddit has also reportedly been testing out NFT profile pictures, while YouTube has stated that NFTs offer “a compelling prospect for creators and their audiences.”

NEW STAR ATLAS SHIPS TAKE FLIGHT

The Star Atlas development team started 2022 ship sales by introducing a $15 USD Fimbul Airbike NFT. The following Townhall session where Michael Wagner, CEO, gave explanations and details regarding the mechanics of ship NFTs release in the new year.

The developers’ attention will reportedly be set toward releasing small and extra-small less expensive ships in order to make the Star Atlas Metaverse more widely accessible to a wider range of audience. To facilitate investors’ planning and being able to purchase these NFTs through $ATLAS earnings of staking mechanism, new ships will be released on a weekly basis. 51 new vessels of various classes and sizes are to be introduced this year, among which the 3 highly anticipated Titan ships (one for each faction) are going to be auctioned with a reserve price of 5 million $USD.

JP MORGAN BECOMES FIRST MAJOR BANK IN THE METAVERSE

JP Morgan has opened a virtual lounge in blockchain-based Decentraland in an effort to capitalize on a "$1-trillion" market opportunity.

The largest bank in the United States, JP Morgan, has taken a massive step into the metaverse, opening a virtual lounge in the popular blockchain-based world Decentraland after it labeled the sector as a $1-trillion opportunity.

Visitors to the lounge, situated in Decentraland's Metajuku Mall, are greeted by a roaming tiger and a digital portrait of Jamie Dimon, CEO of JP Morgan. If players walk upstairs, they can watch an executive's presentation on the economics of cryptocurrency.

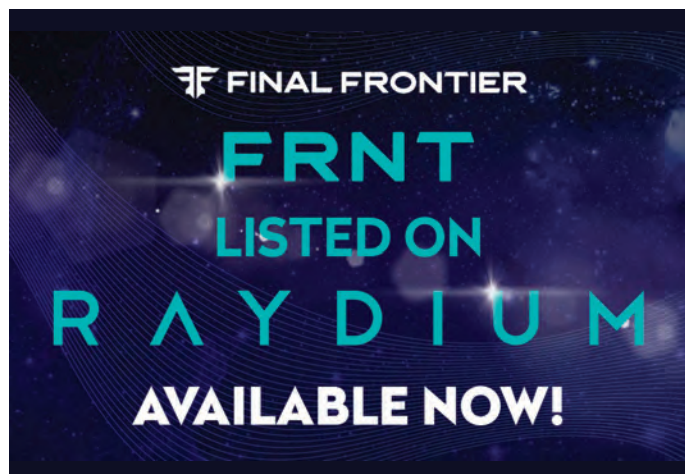

The Onyx Lounge, named after JP Morgan's in-house blockchain payments system, was unveiled alongside a report from the bank detailing the types of business opportunities companies can expect to find in the metaverse.

The report states, "The Metaverse will likely infiltrate every sector in some way in the coming years, with the market opportunity estimated at over $1 trillion in yearly revenues," while also highlighting that $54 billion is already being spent on virtual goods each year — twice the amount spent on buying music.

The report notes the average price of virtual land doubled from $6,000 to $12,000 between June and December last year and predicts that in-game advertising spending will have reached $18.4 billion per annum by 2027.

JP Morgan has identified a rush of individual creators utilizing Web3 to monetize their work in new ways as a driving force behind the new economy being built in the metaverse.

$FRNT LISTED ON RAYDIUM

Purchase and sale orders are made available using the order book in Raydium right now. Raydium is currently the most successful DEX on the Solana blockchain.

THE BIRTH OF THE # UNITED METAVERSE ACCORDS

"The allied DAOs that form the UMA shall at no point restrict membership based upon gender, religion, ethnicity, or anything pertaining to the aforementioned. Individuals who have been denied membership may petition the council if they believe they have been denied membership based upon a violation of human rights." – Article 1 of the United Metaverse Accords

From the very first article it is clear what the United Metaverse Accords (UMA) embodies. All are equal and should be given the same opportunities as any other. Inherent within that singular statement you find aspects of kindness, cohesion, unity, and trust. Ideals that many of us wish our leaders would pursue and uphold and yet we so often find it lacking in one way or another.

The UMA is an historical document for the United Metaverse Organization (UMO) signed between many of the guilds created through the Star Atlas Metaverse.

The birth of the document came from the minds of leaders Kristian Dragnet of the Interstellar Alliance and Rickey Pinkney "Ardo" of Final Frontier. The Accords, which contain bylaws that the leaders have all signed, Leaders from the Decentralized Autonomous Organizations (DAOs) within the UMO form, the UMO Council meet to discuss issues of commerce, war, peace, and diplomatic relationships within the Metaverse. As highlighted in Article 2 of the UMA, neither in-character race nor faction alignment are barriers to these discussions.

"There will be a zero-tolerance policy for aggressive action taken against any DAO within the UMA. It will be seen as an act of war. An attack against one UMA DAO is an attack against us ALL." – Article 3 of the United Metaverse Accords.

The UMA was formed for mutual benefit. It is meant as a document of trust, safety, and unity which stands in contrast to ideals often found in corporate spaces such as greed and selfishness. We believe that Star Atlas is a project with a grand vision, our expectations are high, and there's a growing community surrounding these dreams. There is peace and tranquility as our Metaverse ships sail across the galaxy in one unified force. However, we would be foolish not to acknowledge that it is the calm before the storm. A gold rush is coming and with it, all the ideals that make us want to escape into the Metaverse to begin with. One day there will be competition, betrayal, and espionage as DAOs race to advance their own positions.

The cult movie Point Break from the early 90s spoke of "peace through a superior fire power." The UMA takes note of this wise suggestion. If needed the organization will defend itself with every needed force for the benefit of all the members within. By uniting together, the goal is to be the superior fire power across the Star Atlas Metaverse.

The Remaining Articles

"Any member within a UMA organization who is found to be acting out of malicious intent and attacks another internal member or allied member and/or their assets, will have their membership terminated from their organic DAO, blacklisted from joining another DAO within the UMA, and, if deemed necessary, will have a lifetime bounty placed on them for being in violation of the Accords. This applies to the account that committed the infraction. Any further action taken by the UMA DAOs will be based upon a majority vote of the UMA Council.” – Article 4 of the United Metaverse Accords

GUILDS OF THE UMO

“All DAO leaders shall treat each other and the ranking officers of each organization with due respect. Members of each UMA DAO should respect the position of each Council member, to also include the Star Atlas staff members.” – Article 5 of the United Metaverse Accords

“Officers are appointed based upon experience, ability, and trustworthiness over time. While officers have authority over other DAO members, they are not “superior” to other members and should not be considered as such. The officers are subject to the same rules as other members.” – Article 6 of the United Metaverse Accords

“The Accords can be amended per majority vote of the UMA Council. This prevents tampering with the rules and regulations of the Accords by its founding members. Once agreed upon and officially signed, this document will be presented to the Star Atlas Metaverse as the first historical Accords.” – Article 7 of the United Metaverse Accords

Final Frontier

Final Frontier (FRNT) is a decentralized autonomous Organization (DAO) in the Star Atlas metaverse focused on digital industrial development, business relations, logistical needs and multinational operational security for metaverse missions. Final Frontier has a sub-focus on investing in non-fungible tokens (NFTs) used in virtual environments and blockchain games. The organization’s mission is to generate opportunities through existing protocols for the blockchain gaming community by creating additional asset utilization through integration of the FRNT token to the rapidly growing virtual economy, whilst sharing its rewards with Final Frontier members, investors, and partners.

We believe in embracing the four currencies of the world:

Time — To make the most of each day to learn, progress, and accomplish a task.

Knowledge — To share this with one another in order to synchronize our ideas and increase our cup of intellect.

Relationships — To build partnerships, trust, understanding, respect, and passion for common interests and goals.

Money — A derivative of the harmony of the first 3 currencies, and understanding that if we are going to have financial freedom and success, then we must place the other 3 currencies higher on the priority list of our core intentions.

INTERVIEW...

Who is the DAOCaster?

Hey! I'm Tony. I'm a husband and father to 2 really cool kids. First of all, I love to educate others. I grew up really unmotivated in school due in part to some undiagnosed ADHD and just never thought I'd amount to anything academic and definitely never thought I could learn hard topics like math or science.

That is until one of my teachers helped me realize that I was smart enough to learn and understand things like science and math. So now, I love helping others realize that they are not stupid either, whether that be in science, crypto, gaming, etc... More recently, I fell in love with astronomy and rocket science and am now in pursuit of my Masters in Astronomy. I plan to work for NASA in the future.

Why did you decide to make a YouTube channel specifically for Star Atlas?

Before this, I was a science communicator and taught others about space science on YouTube. This was really fun but because I'm currently in a Masters Program for astronomy, it was really difficult to be [both] learning astronomy and teaching it at the same time.

I decided I wanted to have a little more fun making content and not burnout on astronomy. At the same time, I found Star Atlas. While I do like crypto, gaming and space alike, those aren't really the reasons I chose Star Atlas to make content for. Since I don't have money to invest, I wanted to find a project I actually thought would be the most successful in 5 years and invest my time in it. This game was Star Atlas. I truly believe it will be the greatest gaming experience in the metaverse in 5 years time, so I am investing my time in helping it get to that level in my own way.

Are you part of any DAO or Star Atlas guild?

As a content creator, and more importantly an educator, it is my responsibility to educate without bias. I do not have a guild of choice and have decided not to align with one so long as I am making content and influencing the way people play. My goal is to become one of the most trusted educational channels in the metaverse, and I don't think I can provide a fair and equitable experience for all players if I am loyal to only one guild.

What do you see as the future of Star Atlas? How about the future of the Metaverse in general?

caster

“My goal is to become one of the most trusted educational channels in the metaverse”

The transition to the Metaverse will be a paradigm shift similar to the dotcom era. There won't be any going back once we dive in. The main question is to what extent it will guide our day-to-day lives.

I think Star Atlas will overtake Eve Online and Star Citizen as the most prominent space MMO in the world so long as Star Atlas can come through on their commitment to market to the casual gamer. In regards to the Metaverse in general, we've seen the Metaverse take over in worlds like Ready Player One and Black Mirror. I hope and pray that we never come to those worlds, but I also think it has a lot to do with who controls it.

If the people end up controlling it, I imagine they'll keep it truly decentralized and allow it to feed or enrich our daily life. Allowing people to own the Metaverse could theoretically decrease the wealth gap and actually give us the freedom to enjoy life without the headset. But if centralized powers control the metaverse, I fear it will become yet another means to control the masses and keep us fighting for our lives in this corporate hell hole.

Any alpha for your fans and followers?

I don't like to promise too much before I deliver, but I have a science fiction trilogy in the works, NFTs are in the design stage, and AtlasTheory and I are working on something BIG for the players of the Star Atlas metaverse.

Any parting words?

I just want to say how honored I am to be a part of this community. Everyone has been so welcoming and I really feel like I have found a family in the Star Atlas metaverse. I'm really proud of Final Frontier and proud to be a $FRNT holder.

I look forward to what is coming and cannot wait to take part when it does. Stay tuned for some really impactful projects coming your way, ones that will benefit you, the reader, directly in the coming months. 🚀
